Freich Take Trenches on Somme; Violent Fighting in Alsace. PARIS, Feb. 14.—Today's official state ment from the War Office says:

"To the south of the River Somme a attack by our troops made yesterday evening against the works held by the Germans south of the River Frise re-zulted in our occupying a certain section of trenches. A counter attack delivered by the enemy was checked by our fire One German company was surrounded and decimated. The Captain and 70 survivors surrendered. The total number of prisoners at present in our hands is about 100. Several machine guns were also captured. According to prisoner and judging also from the number of German dead, the losses of the enemy at this point were considerable. "In the Champagne district during an attack delivered yesterday by the enemy at a point to the east of the highway between Tahure and Somme-Py, we were successful in exploding three mines which had been laid previously under the advance trenches to which the Ger-hans had penetrated. The German ef-forts to continue onto our supporting trenches resulted in complete failure. In lite of the serious losses caused by th explosion of our mines, as well as by

He said the board was very strict about enforcing the rule against collection in schools, but that it had been suspended in other cases, notably in allowing Red Cross seals to be sold in the schools. It said it was understood by the board that the limit should be 5 cents and the follection was to be managed so that children would feel free to give or not to give, as they were able. He thought no humiliation or embarrassment would result in this case and that the children would be greatly benefited by having their public spirit stimulated.

Herman Mauch, a former president of the board and now a member, also approved the elephant collection. He said he felt that it was an exceptional case and that no harm could come from it. because every precaution was to be taken to see that no children would be urged to contribute or that no attention would be called to those who cld not contribute. Every Effort to Be Made to Get Men to Polls Because Two-Thirds Majority Is Needed.

Plans were perfected today by the Permanent Road and Bridge Association of St. Louis County to get out hairman of the board of directors of to the polls tomorrow all receivership suit of three stockholders voters who are in favor of a $3,000. 000 bond issue for good roads. The polls at the 55 polling places will be open from 6 a. m. until 7 p. m., and on of the 21-story $4,500,000 Railway a two-thirds vote is necessary to carry the bond issue.

The campaign for a bond issue which was started Nov. 1, will be closed tonight with four mass meet ings in the county. The meetings will e at the Masonic Hall in Wellston inder the auspices of the Wellston Business Men's League; at Weber' Hall in Stratmann, at Kessering's Hall in Pond, and at the opera house n Eureka.

Precinct committeemen of all politica parties will be in charge of getting out the voters in each precinct. They will be furnished with automobiles, donated by county residents.

Two-Thirds Vote Needed. At the campaign headquarters in Clay-Railway Exchange Building was let to who favors good roads should go to the ton it was said that every county voter polls and cast a vote, because of the fact that a two-thirds vote is needed. There are 16,000 voters in the county but the bond issue advocates do not think more than 10,000 votes will be cast They were still confident today that the ond issue would carry by five to one. Letters mailed to 10,000 residents asking them to send in the names of neighbors opposed to the bond issue resulted in the association received 712 names. I also was pointed out that the opposition A four-page folder, called the "St.

to the bond issue was unorganized. Louis County Road and Bridge Bulletin," was circulated through the county today to offset statements appearing in a recent issue of the Kirkwood Courier, the only county newspaper opposing the bond issue. Pierce buildings, which the Railway had been "flooded" with copies of the This folder stated that the count; Kirkwood Courier, and that the Cour ier contained "willful and malicious lies intended to injure the good roads cause." Birdnest Soup. Americans were guests at the annual New Year's banquet of the Chinese Reform Association at 25 South Eighth street last night. Most of the 20 guests had been entertained there annually for nore than 10 years, the dinner being a feature of the closing of the New Year easting season in the Chinese quarter.

Bird nest soup, shark fins and rice ooked in many styles were features of the menu, which was served in 10 ourses. Chop sticks were provided for ach guest, but knives, forks and spoons were used by all the Americans except John A. Laird, former Police Commissioner. He handled the sticks like an Oriental. Mrs. Laird did not follow his example.

Long Gee, a tea merchant, was the pastmaster. An interpreter told the diners what he said.

Among those at the dinner were Judge Ben F. Clark and his daughter. Annaelle; Mrs. Charles P. Johnson, Richard Johnson, Prosecuting Attorney Sidener, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hussman and Mr. and Mrs. George Weber.

She Was Right

A woman, in a speech, recently said:

"The General Federation of Women's Clubs is the second largest single medium in the United States in reaching the greatest number of women. It reaches two million women."

At the close of the speech a woman in the audience arose and asked.

"You said the second largest single medium. Which is the first?"

"A magazine," replied the speaker. "THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL. It has a circulation of 1,700,000 copies, and it is conservative to say that it has four readers to each copy. It's audience is, therefore, nearly seven million women each month."

The speaker was correct, save that a test recently made of 1,000 subscribers showed the average number of readers of each copy of the magazine to be five. This would make a total of 8,500,000 women, or one in every three women in the United States.

Why should this one magazine reach the greatest number of American women of any single agency in the country? See for yourself. Buy a copy of Seven Corps Made Defense. Seven magnificent corps with the were straining every effort to bring up heaviest support of big guns that I had their big guns and their hordes of yet seen, plus the fact that Lossche smaller ones, while the Russian aero-plane observers reported every road from the south choked with reinforce-ments moving to the front.

Himself was a clear-headed and cou-rageous fighter, raised all our spirits to a higher point than they had been since May. The idea of Loesche was that just as had been the case in May on the Dunajec line, it was realized by the Russians that the enemy was planning what they hoped would be a repetition of the Galician drive.

But Loesche, who was now in command, was alive to the menace of the situation, which undoubtedly was the gravest in its possible consequences.

Loesche, feeling this, was straining every nerve to anticipate the German move by himself launching an attack on the German center, held by the Prussian guards, south of Krasnystav. It was felt by the Russians that if this point could be broken it would neces-sitate the retirement of the Germans across the face of the Thirteenth army

Russians Plan First Attack.

It was hoped that this army might advance, threatening the line of the German retreat and communications, while at the first success two cavalry corps tucked away behind Sokal were available for release on the German line of transport and supplies. The Russians had an excellent situation po-tentially, though as always their greatest handicap was shortage of munitions. In view of the gravity of the menace and the possibility of striking heavily at the enemy, other fronts had been stripped of supplies, even to the danger point, to give Loesche at least a fighting chance. The German center of ctivity was in front of Krasnystav while we were told the flank toward the Vistula was held by the Austrians.

The movement began by an attempt on the part of the Austrians to advance on Lublin from the southwest. For sevaral days they made excellent progress driving a hole through the Russian line. The flanking corps of Ewarts, who stood west and north of Loesche, howver, solved this problem by making a rigorous attack on the Austrian comunications and by co-operation beween both armies, Ewart's and Slavs Take 20,000 Prisoners.

The Austrians came a cropper and vere cut off from the main body, losing over 20,000 prisoners, not to mention numerous casualties. These are Russian figures, but I accept them because was at Ewarts' headquarters a few days later and saw his line of communioations to the rear literally choked with nile after mile of the dusty, blue clad Austrian prisoners.

Their morale at this time is evident from the remark of a certain "It is lucky for us," he remarked, "that the fight came just when it did, for in three days we would have had a corps and a half of Germans in support and they would never have permitted us to urrender." Thus the first part of the novement was in favor of the Russians. The day for the Russian advance had actually been set. No doubt the Germans knew as soon as we did, for their information is perfect. They at-tacked two days before. The blow fell on the Krasnystav front, before which stood the Third Caucasians and the Fourteenth European corps, both of which had proven their bravery many

I had been in both these corps a few days before and had examined the front ine trenches held by the Caucasians and had up to that time never seen such elaborate or well designed field works in ny theater of operations. A mase of trenches were to serve as refuges from the bombardment and the front line trench itself was covered with heavy timbers, on which were piled five or six feet of dirt, all ell sodded to escape ob-servation as far as possible.

As this corps stood across the high-way leading to Krasnystav, Chelm and to Brest-Litovsk the Germans concen-trated their attention on the unfortunate Caucasians. I rarely see the German capers, but I was told they reported the German infantry sweeping the Russians out of their trenches with the bayonet. his is not true.

What happened was that the Russians first line was, even as in Galicia, practically washed away and its defenders annihilated. Afterwards I inquired o ascertain the casualties in the trench had visited and how it had withstood he bombardment. I learned to my estonishment that it was practically swept away by shells in two hours and that but six men emerged intact from s company of 240.

Most of Defenders Killed.

This makes it clear to what extent a German infantry dash was responsible for the advance on Krasnystav. As one Russian staff officer remarked to me, "The German advance on our center was not spectacular—simply the Prussian guards in column of fours marching down the highway. Our defenders were mostly killed."

The Germans were dealing with a new man in Loesche, and the break in the man in Loesche, and the break in the front line did not in the least upset his plans. The guards, three full divisions, were ordered up from the reserve and fell on the Germans in front of Krasny-stav and drove them back. Then came another German advance which took them over Krasnystav and threw the cussians back toward Cheim.

Again the Russians countered and Jermans massed and came on. After the first week it became clear that the German strength, with its limitless sup-German strength, with its limitless sup-ply of shell, reinforcements and muni-tions of all sorts, would not be denied, but it became equally clear that the driving back of Loesche was to be no advance such as the Germans had in Attacks Follow Counter Attacks. Here it was a big battle and the gair tack and a loss of five miles. A paus for a few days and then another German drive, and perhaps six miles gained, with again the Russian counter attack and the Germans thrown back four.

For two weeks the line of battle war an extended sigzag, representing advances here and retreats there, but nothvances here and terreats there, but nothing decisive or sweeping anywhere. I though it was clear that day by day the Germans were coming ahead. After the first week it was obvious to me that Loesche had saved the situation from its gravest menace, in that he had taken the first crash of the German advance, and, though he had fallen back, his army had been neither broken nor de-

The "Human Fly" Scaling Wall of Building 150 Ft. Above Street.

His Defiance of the Laws of Gravity Baffles Scientists.

"A bundle of steel nerves" best describes H. H. Gardiner, commonly known as the "Human Fly."

Gardiner has had a career so full of thrills and hair-breadth escapes that it is conceded by medical men, that he is were eminently the one man that he is pre-eminently the one man absolutely without fear.

He has successively originated the double and triple parachute leaps. He was a pioneer in looping the loop stunts as an aeroplane pilot. Others copied his feats until he "stumped" them all by his gravitation-defying climbing of seemingly unclimbable nerves and sinews told on him and he found that in order to keep on

Some time ago he had a particularly difficult climb where the "toe hold" was only % of an inch. His nerves required not even the "quiver of an eyelash" from 100% efficiency. The crowd was there and he must climb.

He realized he was off knife-blade friend, who recommended Carasol. He followed the doctor's advice and made cleared his head and restored his nerve forces. Now he never makes an ascent if he is a bit nervous or head-achy without the wonderful non-intoxicating, nerve-quieting Carasol.

What Mr. Gardiner thinks of this wonderful remedy may be judged by the fact that he has just refused a $25,000 a year offer of a well-known concern and, as a public benefactor, has invested his own money in stock of the Carasol Company.

Carasol stands alone as a harmless and quickly effective relief for head-ache, neuralgia, colds, la grippe, fatigue and nervousness. It contains neither quinine nor narcotic or any habit-forming drug. All first-class drug stores, hotels and cafes sell Carasol. Try Carasol once and you will be as enthusiastic in its praises as Mr.

apacity to advance after they had goten beyond the range of their supporting rtillery. I have seen it repeatedly. A neavy German artillery action is folowed by an infantry attack. The denders being largely killed, the Germans may make 10 miles in a day.
But before the artillery can be moved up the Russians deliver a counter at-tack and almost invariably drive back the enemy. It was for this reason that was so slow. The Germans were quick the Russians before them and rushing or to Brest was lost, and from a bid for a colossal movement their cam-paign in the south settled down to a slow and stubborn day by day attack-ing operation which was obliged to conach week instead of the avalanche tha Drive Shifted to North.

During this early movement I twice visited the Chelm-Lublin front and was n four different corps and at the posttions in many places and I believe they prove that my analysis of the action, though possibly inexact in detail, is cor-rect from the general point of view. During these early days we knew that fighting was proceeding on the Narew north of Warsaw, but up to July 15 to the major German objective was unpubtedly the Chelm-Lublin line. As on as it became evident that a quick ush was out of the question in the outh the fighting in the north sudden-y assumed such violence as to bring he realization upon all that the greatest danger now lay in the possibility of the enemy cutting the Warsaw-Pet-rograd Railroad and thus forcing the vacuation of the Polish capital. As soon as this became evident I left the south, returning via Wlodawa and Brest, for the enemy advances had al-ready cut the railroad between Lublin

We Have Something For Every Man Who Gets a Raise Tomorrow

• We want you to stop right now and do a little plain thinking about yourself and your future.

(If you ever expect to have anything in this world you'll have to start saving before you get used to the raise in salary and are living up to it. It's a whole lot easier to keep on living on a certain sum than to cut down on living expenses. You'll call it "cutting down" after you've had that extra salary for a month if somebody suggests that you save.

■Tomorrow—before you get used to having more money in hand -- hurry right down to the Mercantile Trust Company and put a part of the raise in a savings account—there'll be no cutting down then—you CAN'T miss what you've never had

This start will put more character in you—more backbone—more purpose—and it will be the stepping stone to opportunity. $1 will start your Mercantile Savings Account—but don't be Berlin - Tinney - Castle Syncopated Show at Olympic Full of Mirth and Rythm.

IKE an aeroplane, "Watch Your Step" conquers gravity by its speed. It took the Olympic's audience last night rythmically circling aloit in its first act and a half; then, with to earth, to laugh at Frank Tinney and It was just as well that the form of the entertainment was altered, or at least modified, somewhere about the middle. If the syncopated pace of the first act could have been held until the end, the audience would probably have capered over the backs of the seats, and would have gone fox-trotting out Canada Arranging to Bring Them All of the last half to get one's fingers and toes and elbows and knees quiet, and to overcome the inclination to beat time with one's head.

Then, with the help of Tinney and Kelly, and Kelly's fish hound Lizzio and Tinney's borrowed forks, and his tomato joke, and his Billy Sunday wheeze and his whinny about the sol-diers' eggs, and his attempt to advertise somebody's automobile, and his arments with Bernard Granville ant the orchestra, the audience got some lively work for its facial muscles, and was forced to practice deep breathing to. So there is a lot of healthful indoor exercise in seeing "Watch Your Step."

Tinney and Mrs. Castle.

A stenographic report of Tinney's chatter, with all the laughter and applause duly inserted, would be so cluttreed up with parentheses that it would look like a nominating speech. Whenever the audience did not seem able to stand another hard laugh, he would say something about Mrs. Vernon Castle, to keep anyone from forgetting that she was in the show.

Mrs. Castle danced with distinction, and as for the rest, she followed, as closely as she could, the advice given by Tinney to another of the company, "If you want to be a big hit, don't say nothing at all." Anyone who had never heard of Mrs. Castle—if such ignorance can be imagined in this enlightened age -would be very likely to enjoy her dancing, but would hardly select her as the star of a performance so full of lively comedy and pleasing songs.

The opening scene is a law office, with typists striking their keys in ragtime, and with an array of relatives listening to the reading of a will, also in ragtime. Edna Bates and Bernard Granville, the latter in the Vernon Cas-tle role of a dancing master, appear successively, and accelerate the show's speed. Granville does not sing the verse in which Castle used to complain that "I lead a terrible life, for I have to dance with my wife," but he tells about his "class of 83, all better dancers than Verdi's Shade Protests. In a later scene, showing a grand opera stage and boxes, a very clever operatic medley is introduced and Harry Ellis, as the ghost of Verdi, apepars and begs that "Rigoletto" be spared the desecration of ragtime. Elizabeth Brice. of reddish hair and gleaming dental dis-play, was one of the busiest of the performers, and occupied the middle "low-

The chorus makes frequent and welome appearances, each time in new and er gowns. Yes, "gowns" is correct, for no attempt is made to duplicate the fleshly display of the late-gasped-at "Follies." This chorus does not assume to be the entire show, but knows its place, and fills that place admirably, doing its best with the songs provided for it, and keeping prettiness and rhythm in

That unaccountable person, Irving Berlin, whom criticism has not classified, and whose music nearly everyone likes, wrote the music nearly everyone likes, wrote the music and lyrics of "Watch Your Step." The word "lyrics" may be a bit highflown, but only one of them appears unworthy of its surroundings. That is the crude ballad "Texas," which seems to have been written in a railroad ticket office, and which requires the singer, Granville, to declare that he is "aching to skedaddle on a horse without a saddle," and that his letters from his girl in Texas were all marked up with x-es. Even Irving Berlin should not presume quite so far as this on the public's consideration.

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonfuls for 50 Cents

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair's manner as Wolff-Wilson Drng Co. is selling Schiffmaun's New Concentrated Expectorant, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfac tion could possibly arise from anyone. These druggists say—'Buy a bottle of this remedy and try it for Broachitis, Whooping Jough, Severe Cough, Croup er any Broachial Affection, and we will retura your money, just as we do with Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it does not give satisfaction or if not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints.' Why not take advantage of this guarantee and try this medicine, and get your money back, rather than luying another purely on the exaggerated claims of its manufacturer or on the strength of testimon als from others and run the chance of getting some thing worthless and also wasting your money!

Minn.—ADV.

In buying this remedy, besides section gar absolute guarantee of its curing an absolute guarantee of its efficiency from these druggists, you also get about eight times as much medicine as you would in buying most any of the old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, which average from 20 to 32 teaspoonsful, because 50c worth makes at hom with imply one pint of sugar and one-half pint of water. This remedy positively does not contain chloroform, opium, morphine or any other nareotic. It is pleasant to take and try this medicine, and get your money back, rather than luying this remedy. Druggists everywhere are authorized to sell it under the same guarantee as Schiffmann's famous Asthmator of 'Money Back' if not perfectly attactory, Minn.—ADV.

What's the matter with your baking lately?

Hundreds of women have lately been realizing that their baking isn't so good as it used to be. The bread bakes heavy and solid around the edges and it isn't so white nor so fine in texture as their bread used to be. And no matter how careful they are, their cake and pastry just won't "come out right", for some reason or other.

Haven't you noticed the difference in your baking? Maybe you hadn't thought of there being any special reason for not getting good results; just thought it was a "run of bad luck"; but there is a reason, a reason that has nothing to do with your skill in baking.

Let us tell you what the trouble is.

Last season was the worst for wheat To maintain the high quality of in fifty years. Wheat nearly all over America was badly damaged by too much rain. Sections that, in past seasons, grew the finest grade of wheat for flour making, had nothing but rain-damaged wheat to sell. Naturally, rain-damaged wheat doesn't make good flour; it hasn't strength and vitality, and the too-much moisture sets up a fermentation which spoils the rising qualities of flour made from this wheat.

ature will be convened today.

Were infected with foot and mouth disease will be received. Mrs. Durand has

As an example of how scarce highgrade wheat is and how hard to get, we examined 300 cars of wheat in a single day and found only one carload containing the high quality wheat demanded for making Valier's Enterprise Flour.

The moment we learned how exceedingly scarce high-grade wheat was, we sent our own men to every section of the country where any A-1 wheat at all was grown, and paid premium prices to get it for our mills. Thus by foresight, prompt action and premium prices, we got enough of the highest grade wheat, and, as a result, we can keep our flour up to the highest standard of quality. That's the reason why you'll find Valier's Enterprise one flour that now has the same bigh quality it has always had. Its quality has not been lessened one iota.

The difference between Valier's Enterprise Flour and ordinary flour is great, even under normal conditions, but now the superiority of Valier's Enterprise Flour is more marked than ever.

If you want to make sure of getting good results from your baking — whatever kind of baking you do — ask your grocer for Valier's Enterprise Flour.

Valier's Enterprise Flour costs us more money, naturally; and it costs you a few cents more per sack. But the far better baking results, the fact that you'll have no waste through baking failures, and the fact that you'll get more sctual baking per sack than from an equal amount of ordinary flours, makes Valier's Enterprise Flour the most economical to use. For instance, a lady writes us, "I can get more loaves of bread out of a given number of pounds of Valier's Enterprise Flour than out of any of the many high grade flours that I have ever used — and I believe I have tried them all."

Just once, won't you please insist on getting Valier's Enterprise Flour's We absolutely guaranter that it will make whiter, finer bread, better cake and pastry, and that it will go farther, pound for pound, than any flour you have ever used.

Put this Hour to a test—order a trial sack from your grocer today and have him phone us, should he not have any Valier's Enterprise Flour in stock.

All you say with regard to the principle of segregation is true, and it should be emphatically opposed by everyone who believes in the principles of democracy and the rights of citizenship. The path upward for the colored people of this country is hard enough to travel without having this additional burden and insult heaped upon them. BAOK TO THE JOB!

The spectacle of a union peremptorily ordering striking members to get back to their jobs and be thankful for them is worth considering. That is what 25 transfer wagon drivers were told to do by their union, which threatened to put other men safety conserved as follows: in their places unless they promptly obeyed. The 25 had struck without authority or sanction of the union, for higher wages; and this notwithstanding a raise recently obtained by arbitration in settlement of a strike.

A union dominated by reasonableness, fairness and a sense of responsibility earns the community's respect and gains strength and influence. Not all unions are in control of just and honest members; rash heads formulate their demands and sway their destinles; how far they can go, not how far they should go, marks the limit of their exactions. There are spirits in every union who would rather strike than work, on general principles; and they are the men responsible for what Works," in your testie of Friday, Feb. 11.

THROW AWAY YOUR HAT.

Does your hair stand on end in your horror of coming bald? Then throw away your hat. Thus advises Chicago's former Health Commissioner, Dr. Reynolds, in the current American Magazine, discussing "Why Men Are Bald"-to wit:

How does the hat affect the growth of man? By compressing the arteries, the veins, the lymphatics, and, to some ent, the nerves that supply and nourish the hair. It is not because the hat is hard or soft that keeps the head too hot. It is because the hat-band compresses the vessels and starves the roots of the hair.

Another eminent authority on hair, Dr Skrainka, in the Interstate Medical Journal, proposes a compromise. Why not just tear out our sneering or critical public may say?

For our part we prefer Dr. Reynolds' sheet hatlessness. Bonnets with ribbons or Dolly Varden hats tied under our chins are the only things possible under the Skrainka plan, since even if we cared to. In point of vanity men are should face. We live in America, not in Russia.

MARATHON BUNNING.

ARATHON running is the excuse that permits men to apear on the streets clad in one undershirt and a pair of trunks without being arrested. Any description that could be given of the trunks would be out of proportion to the subject; it is only a mercy that they do wear trunks, and not satchels or suit cases. The technique of Marathon runing is very simple.

A number of men are lured to the outskirts of the city, where they are deprived of all but the above-mentioned clothing. The clothing is then put into an automobile, which drives away slowly. Overcome with modesty, the men attempt to catch the automobile, which remains tantalisingly out of reach, until they fall exhausted, or the automobile runs out of gasoline.

The most incomprehensible part of Marathon ning is that the contestants receive nothing for their efforts. Now we really think they ought to receive something, if it's only-well, say, 10 days. They say Marathon running, as a sport, is dying out. We would nerely say that Marathon running is dying out.

The Town Inventor

The story of a man with the courage of his convictions-and who "hung on" till Dame Fortune smiled broadly upon him.

By Harold Carter.

F Eph Knight had come back a rich man it is probable that Lausanne would have seen its first lynch-But Eph came back a tired, wornout man of 43, stone-poor; and before Lausanne knew that he was in town again he had taken a me-chanic's job in the auto factory which is all that keeps Lausanne's popula-tion up to the 5000 mark. His disappearance had not been so sensational as his return. He was living at the hotel and flinging money around. Everybody knew Eph; he had been born on a farm and had flown kites and made flying machines in the days when Langley was a national lest. He had been on the verge of success, however, at last. A company—the Knight company—had been formed to exploit the new flying machine which the Wrights were soon to consign to the scrap heap. All Lausanne had gone crazy over his dream. The Widow Gill, whose daughter, Polly, Eph had been courting, invested $1200 in the concern. Then the Wrights took out their patent and Eph's company turned turtle,

"Keep the stock; it will be valuable some day," Knight had told Mrs. Gill. And it still reposed, forgotten, among a number of papers-her inrance endowment, the title to the that the Widow Gill held at a local bank. But Knight had fled, while his worthless stock went tumbling about

That was eight years before, and Polly had grown from a beautiful girl to a disappointed spinster of considerably more than 30. Nobody exected Polly to marry, although she had suitors before Knight put in his appearance. But nobody dreamed that Knight was still the knight of her heart, and that she re-peated his words to herself every

"I'll be true to you, Polly, however long I'm gone. And I'll come for you some day, never doubt me, dear."

HEN Knight had come back, to board at the Widow Gill's, instead of at the hotel, At first the people of Lausanne evidenced sullen antipathy. Some still held Knight's rotten scrip; a few had unloaded theirs upon credulous neigh-bors. But the Widow Gill had for-

THE King, who was just taking a bath, was very much frightened and trembled so that he slipped on the soap and got just an awful bump. And he sent word to Janco by his trusty messengers to go away, for he didn't want any 60-foot giant wandering about his kingdom and stepping on things. When the trusty messengers came to Jaco they saw the grindstone and said

"Why do you carry that grindstone?" "To sharpen the long knives of 10,000 men," replied Janco, forgetting again what his father had told him. Of course, the trusty messengers were badly scared at the very thought of 10,000 men with long, sharp knives, so they asked again: "Why will you sharpen the long knives of the 10,000 men?"

"I will not tell you that," replied Janco, just remembering what his father had told him to say. And this scared the trusty messengers more than ever, so they hurried to tell the King. Benny Kauff, Feds' Leading Hitter,

Will Be Mark for N. L. Southpaws

The business of cutting the Browns down to the prescribed limit of 20 men before Feb. 28 is no longer giving Business Manager Rickey any great annoyance.

There are only three players in the collection of "excess" who will be hard to place. They are Runt Walsh, Hugh Miller and Delos Drake, each of whom has a fat and steel-riveted contract. Their services are not exactly in demand although all should be valuable in the Class AA minors. In time the local club may be forced to assume a part of these players contract and place them with any team that will pay the other portion. Rickey's real work will begin after the spring training trip when Jones decides who the seven or eight men are of the chosen 39 who must go. By that time the market will be clogged with talent and the business of placing these men, all well paid, will be come real work. It's barely possible, too, that Jones will, have to will be excess next season.

Willard's Next Opponent, Working Hard for Bout, Says He's Stronger Than Ever.

By Lensed Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, SARA-TOGA LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Frank Moran, the blond-haired Pittsburg

Moran, the blond-haired Pittsburg heavyweight, who will fight Jess Willard for the world's championship in New York on March 8, and who is doing his preliminary training here, took out a hunter's license on Friday and the first prey to fail victim to Frank's gun, was a large red fox, which Frank shot yesterday morning.

Moran is doing some strenuous training here. He is up at the stroke of 8 every morning, and he and his trainer. Willie Lewis of New York, hit the roads the first thing. Moran does on an average of six miles of road work, but is equivalent to 10 or 12 miles, because of the foot or more of snow he plows through. After he comes in off the road he has a vigorous rubdown, then has dinner.

After dinner Frank, armed with an ax, goes to the woods a short distance from his hotel, and for three hours does nothing but chop down trees. Tochop down a half dozen seems nothing to him. After this he has another rubdown, and after a short rest spends about an hour skating. This is followed by a heavy supper and promptly at 7 belis Dorgan leads Frank to his room and puts him under the covers.

Moran Hopes to Stop Jess.

After losing the first three games Freddle Graeff, the only southpaw, rolling in the individual all-star tournament at Peterson's, Con Fuerman, one of the "old guard," came to life in the last two and copped, although he was hard pressed in both of them. Fuerman yesterday totaled 940 and it was the first time since the tourney was started three weeks ago that he was able to get a 900 total.

Waldecker Upsets Schmitt.

One of the surprises of yesterday's rolling was the easy victory of Louis Waldecker over Jul Schmitt, ranked as one of the top-notchers of the city. Waldecker, who before yesterday had his troubles breaking into the winning column, grabbed four out of five from his opponent, spilling 1010 pins in doing it. Besides Ameling he was the only one to go past the four-figure mark. In the third game, Waldecker was the winner by one pin, 185–184.

By winning four out of five from Harry Rood, Brace Jarrett gained a tie for first place with Freddic Graeff. Jarrett and the southpaw each have a record of 12—3 to date. The winner totaled 999 with a 240 as his high single game. The highest single game of the day went to Randall, who lost the odd one of Emil Hilker. In the fifth Randall counted

Mr. Murphy Passes.

"S ILENT" CHARLEY MURPHY, the biggest noisemaker of his d in baseball—off the diamond—the man who dared to fire Fra Chance when all Chicago reared on its hind legs and roared, has slipped des and out of the National game, via the Easy Street portal.

Presumably the disposal Saturday of the Taft-Murphy interests in Philadelphia National League club's ball grounds ends Chubby Charles' nection as magnate with all clubs under the National agreement.

Club owners everywhere, no doubt, heaved a sigh of relief, even though Murphy, who sat in the big league game about 11 years with a borrowed stake, quit the ranks at least $500,000 to the good, plus a fine, fat salary for 10 years.

The Man Who Beat Stecher, JOE STECHER, notwithstanding prevailing belief, is not the ownervel if he were. For, in the game, they have to learn by defeat cording to Doc. Roller of Steches.

Four-Time Winner for $105,000 E VEN more than R. L. Hedges did Murphy profit by an alert min out to Charles Taft that a world's championship team could be bought ready-made for a total of $105,000, about twice the cost to Comiskey of Eddle Collins.

Fifteen baseball magnates of expcrience and supposed acumen stood by and saw Murphy steal the priza lewel of the major league crown from under their very noses. They did not even know it was a prize until it had won the world's championship the following year and followed up with other honors and great profits.

Murphy Out-Thought Rivals.

MURPHY in time came into his own, however. He was the most dehaps because he was the most astute. In many a clash of wits and schemes it was Murphy who energed with the smile and the prize. And although the National Commission and the magnates of both leagues "laid for" him several times, he escaped serious action for a long time with but one plaster of $500. He finally overstepped the line by making charges against umpires that he did not back up. The league seized the opportunity to squeeze him out, and did.

The real reason was not that Murphy committed an offense but that haps because he was the most astu-phy committed an offense but that he thought too fast for his rivals.

M URPHY was a two-fisted fighter—with the typewriter. Unlike Cocated. There was no private bar on his grounds and "What'll you have, boys?" never won him an inch, for it was a query he never put.

Whereas Comiskey bought a lot of friendship, Murphy would not bend an inch. In time he became fairly well hated by the newspaper writers, who put opinions into the paper, and by the fans who read them.

When, therefore, he smashed two idols in succession (Miner Brown and Frank Chance) there was almost open revolt in the Windy City. Brown, who still had years of good service in him, he sold to Louisville, making, it is said, the condition that he be kept there and not sent back to major league baseball.

Then he forced the retirement of Frank Chance, who led the club that won four pennants and a world's title, which about added the last straw.

A Liverpool house writes:

"We believe that any decline in freights will simply add to the price of of wheat and will not permanently lower values. The trouble with freight is not so much price as scarcity, and lowering the price will not increase the available tonnage. We doubt the Government will bring wheat from Argentina as well as from Australia, but if this wheat is to be used to insure the carrying of larger stocks for protective purposes, it will bring wheat from argentina as well as from Australia, but if this wheat is to be used to insure the carrying of larger stocks for protective purposes, it will have no weight on the market and still leaves the trade dependent on North America for consumptive supplies. It is admitted that only a relative small part of the Argentine and Australian surplus is likely to be shipped by July 31, and that shipments for the present season will only about equal the world's requirements."

VETERAN HAS COUNDHOG DAY

Count Little Assemble Never Appears Until Feb. 14.
William T. Hunter, Marshal of the St. Louis Court of Appeals and a Civil War veteran, says that, everybody else to the contrary notwithstanding, this is groundhog day, as well as Valentine's day.
"When I was a boy in Montgomery County," said Hunter as he gathered the reporters about him, "no one ever thought of looking for a groundhog as early as Feb. 2. They don't come out that early. A friend of mine had a pet groundhog. When the weather began to get cold the groundhog would disappear. On Feb. 14 it would come out of its hele, but if the sun was shining it would go back and stay six weeks. My friend's wife kept a record of the appearances back and stay six weeks. My friend's wife kept a record of the appearances of that groundhog and it never came out until Feb. 14. That was the day generally recognized in that part of the country as groundhog day."

The sun came out early today and remained out all forenoon. Assuming Hunter's calendar to be right, and the tradition to be true, this means six weeks more of cold weather.

signed from the Legislature to accept the appointment.

Bretz's appointment generally was considered a reward for services for the Crandall faction when he was a member of the Legislature. He introduced and fathered bills desired by Crandall to abolish the criminal court in St. Joseph. The Judge of this court. Thomas F. Ryan, called and directed the grand jury which indicted Dr. Crandall. The criminal court bill failed to pass. If it had passed Judge Ryan would have been legislated out of his job, and a new division of the Circuit Court would have been created. Gov. Viajor would have appointed the Judge. The disagreement in the board at this time has led to rumors that Villimours and Dr. Postlewait soon will tender their resignations.

One of the hardest questions was: "Name four animals that inhabit the polar regions." Kenyon thought of polar bears and seals and that was all. For the life of him he couldn't recall another one—not even a walrus. After racking his brain until he was half-distracted he finally answered the question as follows:
"A polar bear and three seals."
